ABOUT THIS FIG

College Connections

This FIG gives students the chance to be part of a group that thinks together about their individual language-learning processes, as well as how the process is different when you learn quite different languages: Arabic, Chinese, and Portuguese. We will see first-hand how different the first-year language learning experience can be, we will support each other to succeed whichever language we are working on, and we will have fun outside of class while we do it (because language is bigger than the university!).

First Year Chinese

Introduction to the Chinese language, stressing speaking, reading, writing, and listening comprehension skills. First course of a sequence

How to Learn Languages

In this course we will discover how to be more successful language learners (in particular), but also better learners in general. The skills taught in this class will be transferable to any learning endeavor you might take on. We will explore how to establish personal learning goals, how to learn collaboratively as a community, how to discover individual weaknesses and strengths as learners, and how to think critically and creatively about how we draw upon strengths and address weaknesses when faced with any new learning challenge. We will set individual language-learning goals and explore empirically validated learning strategies that will help reach those goals.

NEXT STEPS

After you leave IntroDUCKtion, you will want to check out the Meet Your FIG page (<https://fyp.uoregon.edu/2019-fall-fig-options>). This page will have everything you need to complete before the beginning of fall term including how to email your FIG Assistant, what to do for your summer assignment, and when you will be meeting your FIG for the first time during Week of Welcome on September 28th. In order to prepare for your coursework and be notified about important academic deadlines you will want to download the "Canvas" and "Navigate" apps to your phone or any device you will be using on campus. Finally, make sure you read the Common Reading book so you can participate in activities on campus throughout the year. If you have any questions, make sure you email your FIG Assistant.
