ABOUT THIS FIG

College Connections

Inside Architecture is designed to extend the principles discussed in ARCH 201: Introduction to Architecture as they are applied in school and in professional practice.

Introduction to Architecture

Offers a structure of principles for making places for people. Examines places, design procedures, and the use of architectural principles in general.

History of Western Architecture

This course examines architecture as a physical record of human society from prehistory through ca. 1500. As we are covering over 5,000 years of architectural practice, we will focus on periods of intense architectural innovation by looking at a series of paradigmatic buildings and analyzing them in terms of their formal qualities and social role. Over the course of the term, we will consider several reoccurring themes, including the use of architecture to promote religion, the relationship between built environment and political structure, and architectural changes as a response to technological innovation, to the architecture of diverse cultures and societies.

NEXT STEPS

After you leave IntroDUCKtion, you will want to check out the Meet Your FIG page (<https://fyp.uoregon.edu/2018-fall-fig-options>). This page will have everything you need to complete before the beginning of fall term including how to email your FIG Assistant, what to do for your summer assignment, and when you will be meeting your FIG for the first time during Week of Welcome on September 21st. In order to prepare for your coursework and be notified about important academic deadlines you will want to download the "Canvas" and "Guide - College Simplified" apps to your phone or any device you will be using on campus. Finally, make sure you read the Common Reading book so you can participate in activities on campus throughout the year. If you have any questions, make sure you email your FIG Assistant.
